Consider approving amendments to the Williamson County Subdivision Regulations.

Commissioner Hays discussed the 2 years or 60% occupancy county regulation for subdivision street maintenance to be accepted. He advised subdivision home owners were not approaching the county for maintenance until their streets were badly in need of repair and the developer could not be found to bring them up to county standards.

The Commissioner suggested 6.3 and 6.4 of the county subdivision regulations be revised to accept a bond if the roads are built to county standards and have been approved by a county inspector.

After discussion First Assistant County Attorney Dale Rye was requested to research the legality of requiring and holding a bond with a report back to court.

Mr. Rye suggested County Attorney Gene Taylor, Commissioner Hays and all interested members of the court met for discussion of the matter.
